I make this provision for the benefit of Markoe and his wife in recognition of our long friendship and of his devotion for many years of almost his entire time and energy to the service of the Lying-In Hospital, an institution in which I have been greatly interested.

Article XVII. I give and bequeath to Miss Belle DuCosta Green, who has long been my efficient librarian, the sum of $50,000, and although I do not intend in any way to control the action of my son or my grandson, to whom my library and collection of books and manuscripts may pass under the residuary clause of this will, I trust that she may be continued as librarian thereof at a salary not less than that which she shall be receiving at the time of my death.

I direct my executors and trustees to set apart from my estate such separate sums as they shall in their discretion determine to be sufficient, under all probable contingencies, to yield a net annual income equal to the amounts of said annuities, respectively, and I give and bequeath each of said sums unto my executors and trustees in trust to collect and receive the income thereof and out of the same to pay said annuities respectively unto the several respective annuitants, in equal quarterly instalments during their respective lives.

I hereby authorize my said executors and trustees, if in their judgment the same shall seem prudent and desirable, in lieu of setting apart the respective trust funds in this article mentioned, to accept the bond or obligation of my son, John Pierpont Morgan, Jr., if he shall survive me, and if not, then the bond or obligation of my grandson, Junius Spencer Morgan, Jr., to pay to the said annuitants the sum of $10,000.

TRUSTEES TO CARRY OUT ALL BUSINESS AGREEMENTS

Morgan & Co., have been taken or stood in my name. I therefore direct and empower my said executors and trustees to assign, convey and transfer to said firms respectively, or to their respective nominees or nominees, any securities, real estate or property standing in my name which all my partners of said firms respectively may have surviving said firms respectively in writing to be the property of or connected with the business of said firms respectively, and I also direct my said executors and trustees to accept, without question, as evidence of my interest in either of said firms, and of the business, profits and assets of the same, such written statements thereof as may be made to them from time to time by my said surviving partners.

Article XXVII.—I hereby ratify and confirm all my partnership agreements as existing at the time of my death and I direct my executors and trustees to perform and carry into effect all and every the provisions, conditions or agreements affecting my estate contained in any articles of co-partnership which may be subsisting between myself and my partners or any of them at the time of my death, notwithstanding that the parties to such articles respectively, or any of them, may be executors, or an executor, or, or beneficially or otherwise interested under, this my will.

Whereas, it was provided, among other things, in and by said deed of trust, that additions to the trust fund thereby conveyed, arising out of accumulated income and profits, might be released or relinquished from the trust fund as therein provided, but that such release or relinquishment should not be made after my death in case by my last will and testament I should have otherwise prescribed or directed; and, in pursuance of the power in that behalf so conferred upon me, I do hereby prescribe and direct, and I prescribe and direct that said power of release or relinquishment of said additions from said trust fund shall not be exercised after my death; and

Sec. 3. The bequest of my residuary estate will include my family portraits in my town residence, No. 219 Madison Avenue, in the City of New York, but it is my desire that none of them shall be taken thence during the lifetime of my wife without her approval and assent.

Such bequest will also include all my library, the sum of $10,000.

Article XXI. I give and bequeath to each of the employees at the time of my death of my firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., of the City of New York, except Charles W. King, above named, an amount equal to one year's salary of such employee at such time, and I give and bequeath unto each person who shall survive me who was at the time of the dissolution of my firm of J. S. Morgan & Co., of London, an employee thereof, an amount equal to one year's salary of such employee at the time of such dissolution.

Article XXII. I give and bequeath unto my valet, Edward Phillips, if he shall be in my employment at the time of my death, the sum of $15,000.

Morgan, Jr., to pay to the said respective annuitants, or to my said executors and trustees for their account respectively, the amounts of said respective annuities, in the manner above provided, hereby giving to my said executors and trustees full power and authority to determine what, if any, security they shall require from my said son or my said grandson for the performance of such bond or obligation.

Article XXIV.—I give and bequeath the sum of $1,000 unto each servant of my household, whether in New York, Cranston, Princes Gate or Dover House, who shall be in my service at the time of my death and shall have been continuously employed by me for not less than five years then next preceding, other than those above mentioned, to whom I have heretofore given legacies or annuities.

Article XXV.—I direct that any lists or memoranda made by me in writing, whether in ink or pencil, for the distribution among my family and friends of any books, pictures, articles of gold or silverware, jewelry, ornaments, or other works of art, shall be regarded and carried out by the executors of my will as though said lists or memoranda were included in and formed a part of my will, and I further direct that such lists or memoranda, with the receipt of the person receiving any such article, shall be accepted as a proper voucher to my executors for the disposition of any such article.

the death of my said wife leaving any child or children or issue of any deceased child or children of our marriage surviving, the trust fund held in trust under said deed and the absolute ownership thereof should be transferred and conveyed to such children and issue in such shares and proportions as I in my discretion might direct, now in exercise of the power in that behalf in me vested in and by said deed, I do hereby direct and appoint that upon the death of my said wife the trustees under said deed shall transfer and convey the whole of said trust fund, with all additions and accumulations, and the absolute ownership thereof, unto my said son John Pierpont Morgan, Jr., if he shall be living at the death of my said wife, and if not, then unto my said grandson, Junius Spencer Morgan, Jr., if he shall be then living.

Article XXIX.—I authorize and empower my said executors and trustees in their absolute discretion to continue during the period of the administration of my estate any allowances or payments which at the time of my death I shall have been in the habit of making regularly to any person or persons for their aid and support, and I also authorize my said executors and trustees in their absolute discretion at any time before they shall have finally administered my estate as executors, to set apart therefrom separate funds to produce an income for the benefit during life of any such persons, so that such payments may thereafter be continued in the event that my said executors and trustees shall, under all the circumstances, determine that such would have been my desire, and I give and bequeath unto my said executors each of said sums so set apart, in trust to collect and receive the income thereof and to pay over the same to the person for whose benefit the same shall have been so set apart, during his or her life.

Nothing in this article contained shall be held to confer any right upon any person to make any claim for or to receive any payment whatsoever from my estate.

While I am aware that the provisions of this article may not be valid as a matter of law, nevertheless I have no doubt that my residuary legatee will gladly concur in carrying them out to any extent that may be proper.

Article XXX.—I direct my executors and trustees to make such provision as they shall determine to be proper for the perpetual care of the burial lot in Fairfield, Conn., in which my first wife is interred, and to that end I authorize them to apply such a sum out of my estate as they shall deem proper for the purpose.

While the gift of all such articles to my residuary legatee is absolute, it is with the desire and expectation on my part that he will, without impairing the completeness of what I have hereinafter in the Thirty-second Article of this will termed "my collections," make to my daughters gifts of such of them as they may particularly desire, and that he will also give to friends of mine, as mementoes of me, such of these articles as he in his discretion may select and consider suitable for the purpose.

Sec. 4. Without imposing any duty, trust or obligation upon my residuary legatee, I request that he continue, so long as in his judgment the same shall be necessary for its support, the same assistance which I have been in the habit of giving during my lifetime to the Society of the Lying-In Hospital of the City of New York.

Article XXXI.—I have been greatly interested for many years in gathering my collections of paintings, miniatures, porcelain and other works of art, and it has been my desire and intention to make some suitable disposition of them or of such portions of them as I might determine, which would render them permanently available for the instruction and pleasure of the American people. Lack of the necessary time to devote to it has as yet prevented my carrying this purpose into effect.

Unless I shall accomplish it, or make some disposition of these collections in my lifetime, they will pass to my son, John Pierpont Morgan, Jr., or to his son, Junius Spencer Morgan, Jr., under the foregoing clauses of this will whereby I dispose of my residuary estate.

Should either my said son or my said grandson thus succeed to the ownership of these collections, I hope he will be able, in such manner as he shall think

MINUTE DIRECTIONS AS TO FULFILLING BEQUESTS

Article XXXIV.—Any gift or other provision under this will or any codicil thereto for the benefit of any woman shall be taken and held by such woman as and for her sole and separate property and estate, free from any debts, liabilities or control of or by any husband she may ever have.

In every case in which the beneficiary to whom my executors and trustees are directed or required by provisions of this will to pay over the income of any trust fund shall happen to be a minor, I direct that my executors and trustees shall, during the minority of such beneficiary, instead of paying over the income to such beneficiary, apply to his or her support, maintenance and education so much of the income of the trust as they shall in their absolute discretion deem proper, accumulating for the benefit of the minor the surplus income not so applied, and paying over to such beneficiary on his or her attaining the age of twenty-one years all such surplus income with its accumulations. Any income thus directed to be applied to the support, maintenance or education of a minor may be either directly so applied by my executors and trustees, or in their discretion may be paid over by them to the father, mother or guardian of the person of such minor, and the receipt of such father, mother or guardian shall be a sufficient voucher and discharge to my said executors and trustees for all payments so made by them.

House for many years, and a sister, who is a school teacher.

On April 24 Aix-les-Bains, the pretty French watering place in the Alps of Savoy, will open a hospital, the gift of Mr. Morgan. Mr. Morgan had made arrangements to be present, and the French government, through his medical adviser and friend of many years, Dr. Leon Blanc, Mayor of Aix-les-Bains, was to surprise him with the golden jewel of the "Mutualite," one of the most highly esteemed decorations the French Republic can bestow.

A special train had been ordered a few days before his death to convey him to Aix-les-Bains, of which he was particularly fond, and where he spent several weeks every spring following the "cure," frequently in the close companionship of King George of Greece.

Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama Canal, and Colonel William C. Gorgas, chief sanitary officer of the Canal Zone, were among the fifteen Americans who were honored with election to the American Philosophical Society at the closing sessions of the annual meeting here today.

BIG BEQUESTS IN CATLIN WILL Daughters Get Money and Country Estate—Servants Provided For.

Morrisstown, N. J., April 19.—The will of Mrs. Frances H. Catlin, who owned a big estate in Morris township, was admitted to probate today. The estate, Fairholme, is left to two of her daughters, Mrs. Otto H. Hansen and Mrs. Stowe Phelps, as tenants in common, with the wish that it be kept up as it is. Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Phelps also receive $25,000 each outright. Their children, Ottilie F. C. Hansen and Helen Frances Phelps, get $5,000 each.

MARTIN IS STILL COY

Telegram from Switzerland to London Looked Upon Askance.

Vevey, Switzerland, April 19.—The police of this city have visited every hotel, boarding house and clinic, taking with them a photograph of Joseph Wilberforce Martin, of Memphis, who has been missing from London since April 3, but they were unable to find him. They state they are convinced he is not in Vevey.

Several telegrams addressed to Martin lie at the telegraph office. The first of them reached here three days ago. It is suspected that Martin is staying somewhere near the Lake of Geneva and visited Vevey to telegraph, as it appears that the telegram, "Cease inquiries. All well. Writing. J. W. Martin," was sent in his name, but whether it was actually signed by him is not known.

London, April 19.—Scotland Yard officials are inclined to be suspicious of the telegram from Vevey, Switzerland, signed by J. W. Martin. They have ascertained that the message was actually filed at Vevey, but up to this evening they have been unable to discover the identity of the sender.

Memphis, April 19.—Members of the family and relatives of Joseph Wilberforce Martin place no credence in the reports that he has communicated with friends in London from Switzerland. Rumors have been rife for several days that the family was cognizant of Joseph Martin's whereabouts and was concealing the information from the public. This is denied by Fontaine Martin, brother of the missing man, who points out that if Martin were alive he would communicate at once with his mother, as he was known to be her favorite son.

Further substantiation that the family had no news of Martin was evinced today when the reward of $2,500 was renewed and cabled to London. It will be paid on the receipt of any information leading to the discovery of Joseph Martin's whereabouts.

Creditors, it is expected, will agree on the appointment of a trustee in bankruptcy at a meeting called for Monday, April 22, under the bankruptcy acts. The trustee will take charge of assets turned over by the receiver, Dan F. Elliott, who has announced he will take legal steps in the federal court to secure funds to carry on the company's plantation work.

FRENCH DRAMATISTS ANGRY Resent Criticism of Manager of the Odeon Theatre.

(By Cable to The Tribune.) Paris, April 19.—André Antoine, manager of the Odeon Theatre, which has a subvention from the French government, is severely attacked by Parisian dramatists for his lectures recently delivered at Nantes about the French stage, in which the founder of French theatrical realism severely criticised French dramatic authors, especially those who were members of the Academy.

Antoine takes Brieux to task for spoiling his vigorous dramatic conceptions by putting them into ambiguous and feeble language; he accuses Hervieu of being too dry, mathematical and without human feeling; he charges Donnay with being too ironical and too much of an overworked analyst ever to produce really serious work, and asserts that his plays repeat the history of the hobbie skirt fads that tickle the fancy for the moment and are soon to be forgotten, and that Bataille is an unwholesome artist with delirious inspirations.

A group of authors took steps to complain to M. Berard, Under Minister of Fine Arts, demanding that Antoine, as government official and director of the Odeon, be reprimanded; but the government wisely decided not to interfere in the matter, and Antoine stands to his guns, and says:

"Because I manage a state theatre is no reason why I should not have my opinions on dramatic literature or why I should refrain from expressing them."

This theatrical tempest in a teacup excites great interest, the popular feeling being with Antoine, because opinion is gaining ground that certain Parisian dramatists are over-sensitive and overcautious and are suffering from swelled heads.

WOMEN OF BERLIN ANGRY No Ornaments of Hats to Expend Beyond the Brim.

(Special Correspondence of The Tribune.) Berlin, April 19.—The police have now started an active campaign against the latest fashion in women's hats. Recently all protruding hatpins were ordered to be guarded with safety knobs. Now the authorities will prohibit the wearing of all ornaments, feathered or otherwise, sticking beyond the rim of the hat, which are made stiff by wiring or other artificial means.

The police action has been taken as the result of many complaints from men suffering. In one case a man's eye was badly injured while he was "straphanging" behind a woman who was wearing a wired feather projecting horizontally.
